About

I am an Enthusiastic data scientist who recently completed a rigorous data science bootcamp coursework, blending a foundation in data journalism and monitoring and evaluation with a burgeoning interest in Machine Learning, NLP, and Deep Learning, Big Data and Machine learning operations Throughout the bootcamp journey, I've delved into various projects like sales analysis project on tableau, practicing various regression methods, and current work on movie recommender systems. These experiences have honed my ability to extract actionable insights from data, bridging theory with practical application.

With a background rooted communication I bring a unique perspective to the realm of AI, where I come up with various articles on machine learning AI and the current trends thus synthesizing quantitative methodologies with emerging technologies. Each project has offered invaluable opportunities to refine my skills in Python, TensorFlow, and PyTorch, while also fostering a deep appreciation for collaborative
